

Fig. 9:

F O O T

Can a health care company find ways to tread more lightly on the planet?

Why shouldn't hospitals be doing their part to protect the environment? We think they should. That's why we're implementing changes across our family of hospitals that reduce energy consumption and waste without sacrificing patient care. It's clear that a healthier planet makes for healthier people, and that's our foremost goal, so we'll keep looking for ways to do more when it comes to wasting less. To contribute your own thoughts on how we can collectively put our best foot forward where health care is concerned, visit blog.chwHEALTH.org.

