LIFESTYLE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Participants in the Lifestyle Management Program discover important ways to “re-set” after cancer treatment with guidance from experts in the areas of social work, nutrition, and physical and occupational therapy. As a group, every member has the opportunity to focus on life and health after cancer. Participants are encouraged to actively participate in the psychosocial, rehabilitation, and nutrition experiences that are the core of this program.

This program is free for patients of the Cancer Center who are completely finished with their chemotherapy, immunotherapy, biotherapy, radiation treatments, and/or have recovered from surgery.
